January 2016

All good things must come to an end and so does the physical presence of Sana Gallery in Singapore. Because our principals are relocating to Europe, Sana Gallery will close its physical space in March of this year, and become a pop-up gallery until we re-open in Europe.

Our contact details however and our website remain the same.

It has been an enormous pleasure and a privilege to work with all of you. We are very grateful to your support in our mission to showcase a different image of the Middle East from the wrenching television pictures of blood and gore all of us are assaulted with on a daily basis. It is hard not to notice the almost complete inexistence of cultural exports from the Middle East, or the absence of any will by most in the Middle East to support the export of their culture. Sana Gallery is extremely proud, as an art institution, to have, in ways proportionate to its small size, radiated a tiny amount of the Middle East's ancient culture, glittering history, and permanent relevance in Southeast Asia.

Here are our next events.

First, you are all cordially invited to continue to view our show "Postcard from Syria: Art is Peace" extended until January 31.

Second, in keeping with our new mission of acting as a pop-up gallery in Asia until such time as we are re-launched in Europe, we are delighted to announce our multiple collaborations with Asia Contemporary Art Show and the Alliance Française de Singapour in which will be featured works by Jack Dabaghian, Laura Boushnak, Nayla Kay Saroufim, Jacob Ibrahim and many others.

Finally, we will be hosting a drink reception sometime in the next few weeks- more details on their way soon.

With our very best wishes for a healthy and happy 2016.

Last Chance to view "Postcard from Syria: Art is Peace"

Until January 31

We are pleased to let you know that we have extended our show "Postcard from Syria: Art is Peace" until January 31 instead of January 17.
